Abstract:
FINDING ANANDA is the ninth production in the highly acclaimed History of Ideas programme of Bangalore Little Theatre. The play opened in Bangalore in September as a collaborative project with ADA Rangamandira and had simultaneous productions in English and Kannada. The audience response to the play was overwhelming.

Finding Ananda has a contemporary setting in which Swami Vivekananda looms large over the space without being seen on stage. The play moves away from the conventional hagiographic view to an emphasis on a universal spiritual perspective, and highlights the Swamiji’s commitment to action for addressing pervasive social issues in society.

The script is the product of the play development programme at the Academy of Theatre Arts within BLT. The essence of the History of Ideas programme is the production of plays based on the lives of great personalities who have contributed significantly to human thought in a demanding historical context. Finding Ananda follows two highly acclaimed plays: The Prophet and the Poet, based on the exchange of letters between Mahatma Gandhi and Rabindranath Tagore, and Tiger! Tiger! revealing the humanistic side of Tipu Sultan.

Please note: JC Road is one-way from Minerva Circle. There is ample parking at Ravindra Kalakshetra

Registration: Admission Free and Open to All. However prior registration would be helpful. Register here
Seating will be on a first-come-first-serve basis. Kindly be seated 15 minutes prior to the start of the play.
